(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 14.—Six stalwart Russian fliers and their gigantic four-motored plane are "down" somewhere in the desolate Arctic wastes, a message received at 6:40 a. m. today, PST., by the army signal corps indicated.

With the fliers originally scheduled to land at Fairbanks about noon, Friday, the faint message was received more than 18 hours after the fliers were due.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 14.—The silent frozen northland today shrouded the fate of Soviet Russia's six gallant airmen who were forced down somewhere in the vast stretches between the North Pole and Fairbanks, their scheduled first stopping point.

Not since early yesterday had a message been received from the plane—the third transpolar plane from Moscow.

Worried Soviet representatives here assumed the big four-motored airship, captained by Sigmund

PA NEW OBSERVES

Prof. I. N. Moore, retired instructor at Slippery Rock State Teachers' College, was here on business yesterday. Newt, as he is known to his older friends was once a teacher in the New Castle schools and also in county schools. He doesn't do much now but work in his garden, and his educated beet and onions are said to be the wonder of the neighborhood.

In Pa New's orchard there are a lot of family trees being shaken at annual reunions. The family tree is often rooted in tradition, but the sprouts don't worry about that, when they go into a huddle to sample their relatives' cooking. Reunions serve a useful purpose in fertilizing family trees with good fellowship, but beware of asking your relatives for a loan.

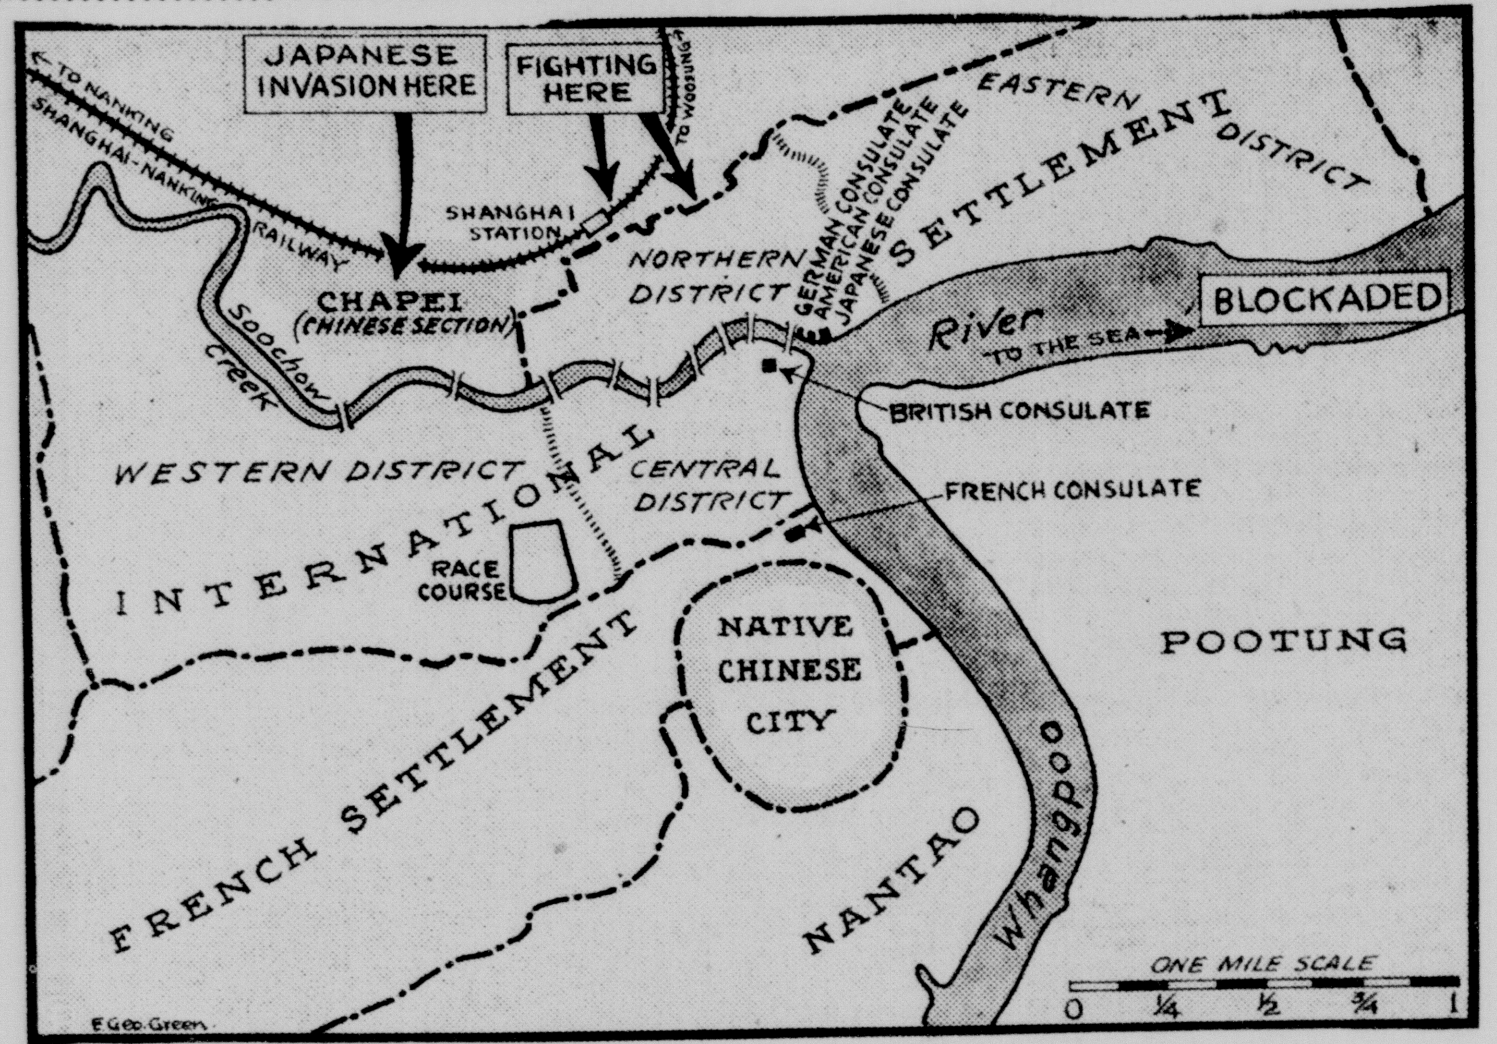

Water from the Neshannock is going to get fooled if it thinks that it is going to get into the cellar of the Murphy building. They're digging a big sink hole, away below the cellar level, with provisions for pumping if necessary, and besides there's going to be enough "stick 'em" in the cement to discourage any hitch-hiking water.

It may be unlawful to shoot game on the public highways, but it certainly isn't unlawful to kill by automobile, if one is to judge by the defunct chickens, birds and animals scattered along the roads. Of course the motorists don't kill with malice aforethought, but some of the killing might be prevented with a little more caution, but what's the use in cautioning a motorist?

Black's Confirmation By Senate Is Foreseen

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—A small but militant minority of the senate today organized a futile fight to block confirmation of their colleague, Senator Hugo L. Black, Alabama Democrat, as a new associate justice of the supreme court.

The opposition to Black centered about the contention that the constitution disqualifies him from accepting the appointment. This was brushed aside by administration leaders, who declared early polls disclosed an overwhelming majority of the senate would vote to confirm.

The constitutional issue was raised first by Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, who declared no vacancy existed on the court despite retirement of Associate Justice Willis Van Devanter. He declared the fundamental judicial act held by the supreme court membership to one chief justice and eight associate justices. He insisted Van Devanter remained an associate justice, despite his retirement, and therefore there was no vacancy.

Different Issue.

Senators Austin (R) of Vermont and Burke (D) of Nebraska raised a slightly different issue against Black. They agreed with a majority of the senate that the retirement act in-

Killing Of Americans In China Will Bring No Official U.S. Action

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—State department officials received with grave realization of the seriousness of the Sino-Japanese fighting today, news of the death of four Americans in the Shanghai bombardment.

At the same time, it was made plain that there was nothing specifically that could be done about the deaths, other than to renew pleas of diplomatic representatives to both China and Japan to keep the fighting out of regions populated with foreign representatives and business executives.

Japan Plans To Send Huge Force To War On China

(International News Service)
TOKYO, Aug. 14.—Immediate dispatch of a great expeditionary force to wage war on China was decided upon, it was understood, at today's meeting of the cabinet—the second emergency meeting in two days.

Sending of reinforcements was cloaked under the announcement, following the session, that the ministers had decided on "concrete measures" to bring to a speedy end the present "war" in Shanghai.

Further Action Seen
Further naval action at the Chinese metropolis was predicted in an irate statement by the Japanese admiralty.

"The navy's patience is exhausted," it said, "and the navy will be compelled to take all possible measures rendered necessary by increasing Chinese provocations. Especially, the navy will bombard Japanese warships. More than a dozen Chinese warships participated in these bombardments since morning."

Joe Crosson Starts Hunt For Russians

(International News Service)
FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 14.—Launching a dramatic search for the six Russian airmen lost in the vast Arctic wastes, pilot Joe Crosson and four companions took off in a huge Alaskan Airways plane today from the Fairbanks airport.

Hope that Pilot Sigismund Levantsevsky, "Lindbergh of Russia," and his five aides are safe was spurred when the army signal corps station at Anchorage intercepted faint, spattering radio signals, at 6:40 a. m. (PST) today, apparently from the transpolar plane.

President Cruising On Chesapeake Bay

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Somewhere in Chesapeake Bay waters, President Roosevelt was cruising today while congress continued its hectic and acrimonious rush toward adjournment.

The president left Annapolis last evening with a small party for a weekend aboard the presidential yacht Potomac, planning to return to Washington Sunday afternoon.

Senator Sherman Minton (D) Indiana, was the only official guest aboard. Others in the party included Miss Margaret Lehand, the president's personal secretary, and her friend Mrs. Eleanor Townsend of New York; Dr. Ross McIntire, White House physician, and Col. Edwin M. Watson, and Capt. Paul Bastedo, the military and naval aides, respectively.

Across a balmy summer breeze there comes a roar of turbulence, a lot of words, a lot of heat, of argument and eloquence, it is the usual thing I guess when candidates are on the wing, when votes are ready to be snared, that's time for candidates to sing. On printed cards and spoken word, in pictures large and pictures small in barber shop and cabaret in pool room and in lighted halls, they ply their trade and raise their voice, and carry on the self same way, each time election comes around, the weather's ninety three today.

MANY CASUALTIES AMONG FOREIGNERS

Japanese Ships Shell Part
Of City And Add To Toll
Of Dead And Wounded

(International News Service)
SHANGHAI, Aug. 14.—Huge incendiary aerial bombs ripped into the heart of Shanghai today, killing and wounding hundreds of natives and snuffing out the lives of at least three Americans.

The appalling death-toll of bombs dropped from Chinese airplanes and carried far out of range by the winds of a typhoon that roared in from the China Sea was estimated by police of the French concession as at least 456.

Over 800 Wounded
This number lost their lives and another 828 were wounded when bombs wrecked the intersection of Avenue Edward VII and the Tibet road, one of the busiest corners in the city. Police of the international settlement estimated the deaths in another bombing on busy Nanking road at 50, with an additional 75 seriously injured.

If these figures are substantiated, the day-long shelling which turned this teeming waterfront metropolis into a bloody battlefield will have set a new high record for the killing of civilians by clashing armies anywhere in the world.

Hostilities Throughout Night
Japanese and Chinese aerial, naval and land forces cooperated to wreak death and destruction on this "Paris of the Orient." Hostilities continued unabated throughout the night, with the international settlement, with its 4,000 American residents, so menaced by falling shells that all guests were evacuated from the De Luxe Palace and Cathay hotels and a wholesale exodus from the city was considered by foreign authorities.

In the indescribable horror and

UPHOLD TEACHER'S DISMISSAL

Teacher May Make Appeal

Waynesburg Case May Be Carried To Court It Is Indicated

SCHOOL BOARD AFFIRMS ACTION

(International News Service)
WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 14.—Mrs. Laura Elms Morris, the country "schoolmarm" whose dismissal on charges of incompetence, cruelty, inability to maintain discipline and teaching her charges that man was descended from monkeys was affirmed by the school board last night, today was expected to carry her battle for reinstatement to the courts.

The school board of four farmers and a mechanic who listened to 500 pages of testimony in the gas-lit one-room schoolhouse where Mrs. Morris taught announced its decision after two hours of deliberation. Among other things, the board found, according to its president, Jesse Shultz, that during periods which should have been used for recitation Mrs. Morris "told her pupils about their ancestors and advised them that the human race originated from monkeys."

Findings Of Board
Mrs. Morris, who taught for 11 years, failed to keep order in the one-room schoolhouse, according to the findings of the board, which charged she permitted the pupils to throw paper wads, mud balls and overshoes, and whisper promiscuously.

The board further found, according to Shultz, that Mrs. Morris failed to maintain order in the school playground and permitted the pupils "to tear out the foundation from under the school building. Mrs. Morris was also charged in the report with punishing her pupils with boards, paddles and straps and an iron poker "which no school teacher should ever use in punishing school children."

The board in its report found Mrs. Morris guilty of striking Eugene Jones, the principal pupil witness against her, with a board 18 inches long, three inches wide and one inch thick and with a maulball bat approximately two and a half feet long and on striking his brother, Jack, with the same board, a strap and an iron poker.

Mrs. Ernest Isherwood, the teachers' attorney, had previously announced her fight for reinstatement will be carried to the Green county court.

fortune time, Friday evening. The car in front of Pa. New's car knocked one of the birds for a row of flip-flops but it apparently was not injured very badly.

Parking meters were in operation on North Mill street this morning. They are being erected on other side streets downtown, and will soon be in operation on all of the proposed parking meter streets.

There are still a lot of sidewalks in this city that are sadly in need of repair or rebuilding.

Pa. New's has found another lawn which is very worthy of commendation. This lawn is to the side and rear of the Uhl home at 218 North Beaver street. The lawn is closely and neatly trimmed, and marked in various places with attractive flower gardens.

SOVIET FLIERS FORCED DOWN IN FAR NORTH

Levanovsky had been forced down by lack of fuel.

Fuel Shortage?
The plane had only sufficient fuel to reach Fairbanks—4,000 miles from Moscow—and the absolute deadline for that destination came with dusk last night.

However, torch flares were lighted along the Fairbanks airport to guide the plane to safety. But the long-awaited hum of its four motors was not heard.

As fears mounted for the safety of the six airmen, plans were being made to launch a gigantic search of the arctic wastes.

Unofficial reports here said that planes were expected to take off from Moscow. Meanwhile, plans were being made to launch a search from this end. Fairbanks aviators, veterans of the northland, stood by ready to volunteer.

Reports One Motor Fails
Moscow, Aug. 14.—One of his four motors failed over the polar regions, Sigismund Levanovsky, American-born pilot, revealed in one of his last radio messages. It was learned today a breakdown in the lubrication system was blamed.

The flyers said, however, that they could continue on the remaining three engines without losing height. The silent motor was the outer starboard one.

repulsed, according to a Madrid announcement, with heavy losses. The Loyalist offensive at Brunete also was designed to take advantage of reported widespread inner rebellions in rebel-held territory.

Close Frontier

Disaffection, it was stated at the ministry of defense, has spread from Teruel and Segovia to the other sides of Spain. The Franco-Spanish frontier has been closed by the Rebels, said the ministry, to prevent leakage of serious internal troubles at San Sebastian.

Victory in a naval battle in the Bay of Biscay off Gijon also was claimed today by the Loyalists. The Rebel warship Jupiter was seriously damaged by the Loyalist Destroyer Ciscar, although the insurgent vessel was supported by several other craft.

BLACK'S APPROVAL BY SENATE FORESEEN

ferentially enlarged the supreme court membership to include nine active justices aside from those retired. The next step, further, and declared this enlargement constituted creation of new offices.

Under the constitution, Black would be ineligible to appointment if the place he fills really is a "new office" created during his term in the senate. The constitutional ban reads:

"No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such term."

Third Contention.

A third contention that the "emoluments" of the office were increased by the retirement act, thereby barring Black from the appointment, has not been taken seriously by senate lawyers.

There was a possibility the opposition might attack Black for alleged membership in the Ku Klux Klan. Many newspapers reported he was supported by that organization when he first won his senatorial seat in 1926. Black, however, has denied belonging to the secret order.

The nomination rested in the special judiciary committee, after a special administration-controlled subcommittee reported it favorably by a 5 to 1 vote. The full committee will consider it Monday, with the likelihood of an immediate favorable report to the senate. Action on it was expected next Wednesday, with confirmation the inevitable outcome.

Unbridled Panic
In the wake of the bombing, fear gave way to unbridled panic. A huge crowd of Japanese mobbed the Cathay hotel just before that building was evacuated, pleading with police and guards to allow them to enter for safety.

Many refugees were rushed to Yangtzeop field, where the Japanese are building an airbase. The hangars erected there in the steady series of air raids and artillery duels, affording some measure of protection.

While the panic was at its height the Japanese warships in the river opened fire on Chapel, starting scores of fires which threatened to level the entire section. The newly built civic center at Kiangwang, pride of Shanghai, also was bombed.

During the fighting, a Chinese bomb hit and set fire to the British-owned Asiatic Petroleum Company's plant mid-way between Shanghai proper and the Woosung forts.

HUNDREDS DIE AS BOMBS DROP INTO SHANGHAI

confusion, an adequate check of the foreign casualties was impossible. American Missionary Killed

Dr. Frank Rawlinson, one of the leading American missionaries in Shanghai, was among those killed. First reports said Dr. Rawlinson's daughter also was killed in the explosion but investigation disclosed she had escaped.

The other Americans killed were: H. Honigsberg, Shanghai automobile dealer.

Professor Robert Reischauer, who was leading an American college touring party. Reischauer was killed at the Palace hotel where he had sought safety after leaving the Astor Hotel.

It was not so much the wreckage aim of Chinese that caused the terrible civilian casualties on land. The twisting winds of a Chinese typhoon were more responsible.

Attempt To Sink Jap Flagship

The Chinese bombers were attempting to sink the Japanese flagship Idzumo, anchored in the Whangpoo river off the Bund. With the warship's powerful anti-aircraft guns trained upon them, the Chinese airmen flew at a high altitude over the busy river, with result that many of the bombs they dropped were carried inland by the wind to spell tragedy and desolation in the city.

At one time during the day, however, Chinese planes deliberately raided the Japanese consulate and Japanese troop positions after failing to sink the Idzumo.

The first of these misdirected missile plummeted to earth on busy Nanking road, a few yards from the Palace hotel.

Bomb Kills 150

More than 150 persons were killed or wounded when this bomb tore a gaping hole in the street. One American and a British woman were killed and fragmentary reports said 35 "non-Chinese men" also lost their lives.

A short while later two giant bombs hurtled from the sullen sky and dropped directly at the busy intersection where Edward VII avenue met the city.

Here Dr. Rawlinson met his death. His automobile was one of a dozen crushed like egg-shells when the exploding bombs wrecked homes and buildings and killed or injured at least 200 persons.

The force of the explosions tore the clothes from victim's bodies; corpses, mangled beyond belief were hurled through the air, some of them carried scores of yards to the waterfront itself.

Toll Is Unestimated

How great a toll of life the costly inaccuracy of the Chinese bombers took among their own people in crowded Chapel could not even be estimated.

Those hurt in the Nanking road bombing included a German whose leg was torn off at the knee and another European, who was sitting in the lobby of the Palace Hotel. He was hurled from his chair by the blast and flattened unconscious against the wall.

The street outside was a tangled mass of shattered bodies, pools of blood, twisted street car wires and other debris.

During the fighting, a Chinese bomb hit and set fire to the British-owned Asiatic Petroleum Company's plant mid-way between Shanghai proper and the Woosung forts.

SHADOWS ON DRAGON THRONE

JAPAN and China are still in a state of at least technical peace, neither of them claiming belligerent rights vis-a-vis the exterior, non-combatant world. Yet into the former capital of China, where emperors so long ruled during the age of China's magnificence, marched a brigade of Japanese troops, paraded in full war equipment to take formal possession. Thus what was once Peking, what is now Peiping, becomes a Japanese metropolis. The rest of the world is left to make what it pleases of it.

There was a satiric touch—one can suspect the Japanese of being humorous—in the leaflets showered from airplanes on the Chinese populace as the troops tramped past the palaces. One item read:

"Both the Chinese people and North China always will be Northern Chinese."

If an invading foe, in the course of an undeclared war, occupied our former capital, New York, it would doubtless quiet our apprehensions to be assured that we should remain North Americans. The inhabitants of Peiping are at least certain of one thing—that Peiping will remain at 40 north latitude. Not even Japan can change that!

But Japan can change a great deal else, and whether Peiping and Northern China will ever be restored to Chinese rule is doubtful in the extreme. The Japanese know how to use sentiment for practical purposes, and one bit of practical sentiment, at least from the Japanese viewpoint, would be to plunk Emperor Kang Teh, who now "reigns" in Manchukuo, on the "Dragon Throne" of his ancestors in Peiping. He might even be permitted to proceed to the Temple of Heaven, now in Japanese occupation, to make obeisance to the shade of that supreme xenophobic, the great Dowager Empress, who wants to drive all foreigners out of China.

Somehow it seems a long time since that first winter of President Harding's administration, when Japan, sitting at a table in the Pan-American Union at Washington, agreed to restore Shantung to China, and ever afterward respect the administrative and territorial integrity of her great neighbor. One has a vague recollection that some one appropriated on that occasion the gold fountain pen with which Dr. Wellington Koo, the principal Chinese delegate, signed the pact.

DO MEN DRIVE BETTER THAN WOMEN?

Women will not—or at least should not—become vexed with Burton W. Marsh, one-time Philadelphia traffic engineer, who after a year of tests concludes that men are better automobile drivers.

"Brushing chivalry and mythology aside," begins Mr. Marsh, and the worst can be expected. It comes. Men have better vision, are less easily blinded by glare, hear better, concentrate better at the wheel and park more efficiently, he decides. Women see better from the corner of the eye, drive more slowly, concedes Mr. Marsh gallantly—but they simply can't operate a car as well.

It's a never-ending argument, each side claiming fresh evidence daily. The off-hand masculine view, of course, is that whatever the facts, women should tactfully concede male superiority at such a mechanical task, one of the few fields where man has a real chance to surpass woman.

WAR ON WEEDS

This is the time of the year when neighbors might well organize for a war on weeds. Hay-fever victims deserve at least this much consideration. Moreover, the general attractiveness of the city and its environs will be heightened by a general sprucing up of vacant lots and other sections surfeited with the wild plants that are about to pollinize.

It should be easy for a few men and boys, armed with scythes and rakes, to do the job in a given neighborhood. But the results in terms of community healthfulness would be of no little importance.

A newspaper, sponsoring such a campaign, suggests the formation of "neighborhood weed clubs," with contests arranged for the volunteers of adjoining blocks.

This may be carrying the thing a bit far, but there can be no denying the existent opportunity for community-minded activity. Weeds are a menace during the month of August, though they may be only a minor nuisance at other seasons of the year.

2,000,000 PENNSYLVANIA AUTO TAGS

The automobile has come to Pennsylvania to stay. There can't be any doubt about it now. For the first time since this state began to register "horseless carriages" in 1906 the total of motor licenses this year exceeds 2,000,000.

This jump in the number of tags issued at Harrisburg tells its own story of business recovery and increased earning and spending power. Motor licenses don't break records during depressions, or when citizens lack faith in the future. Labor disturbances and uncertainty concerning governmental policies can't keep people from buying cars if they have the money.

There is one other thought suggested by the more than 2,000,000 automobiles in Pennsylvania. Their owners are paying plenty into the state treasury in the way of taxes. The infinite ability of government officials to find new revenue in motor cars passes understanding. In fact, the heaviest load carried by automobiles in this state is taxes and more taxes.

How to reorganize a government: First abolish the office that interferes with spending.

Man is funny. He cheerfully pays for other education, but feels abused when he has to pay a note he endorsed.

But isn't it strange that the only man who has to act in self-defense is the one who happens to have a gun.

The Parent Problem

TEACHER APPROVES BONING

"Dear Dr. Myers: Your recent article on the 'Need for Boning Seen in Educational Methods' brought a hearty 'Amen' from many of us teachers in a junior high school group here in Columbus. There are also those in the group who believe as you say many do, that incidental memory is sufficient. Of course there are the exceptional children who memorize easily who do not need to do the extra boning, but a big majority do not possess that faculty.

"The problem with us is this: If the pupil fills out an outline well, makes the required laboratory notes and drawings, as we require in biology and science, should the tests over the units count very much? Some teachers give few tests and never require an absent pupil to make them up. As final examinations are not in vogue here we find that many of our students find them to be a big obstacle when they go to college."

Answer: I am glad you believe in some boning by students. Those who suppose that all learning should be on a bed of roses, close their eyes to facts. Besides, I can't quite see how any student can acquire good self-discipline and habits of mental work who has not learned to drive himself and to dig out and memorize things when he would rather not.

Notes Required

Some outlines and laboratory notes should be required of junior high school students, to be sure, but probably far fewer than at present. Let these outlines and notes be minimal requirements exacted of every student before he may take examination on the field covered. Why assign any credit on marks for them, except where there is extra contributions of original nature? Besides the student should be held responsible for knowing what is in his outlines and notes, be tested of them sufficiently to induce him to write them thoughtfully and reflectively.

Nor should we abolish final examinations, though I once believed we should. The student needs to feel responsible for retaining the basic items of what he has learned. Examinations are valuable learning aids when they are given wisely when they call for a few essentials and the basic ideas, are brief, and are so administered as not to stir up needless nervousness, worries and anxieties in the student.

ROUTINE OR DRUDGERY?

I was tired of the routine of my life. . . or I thought I was. So I opened the front door of my house and went out into the night and sat in a little garden. The full moon shone over my shoulder and made bright an evening primrose so that it was white in the night and on its petals the dew gleamed like jewels. The mint was sweet in the evening air and the leaves of the briar rose gave freely of their fragrance. The cat came near and lurked in the shadows of a little maple tree. And it was very pleasant to be there.

I fell into simple thoughts of the routine of other things than myself. . . Of the moon that grew from a thin crescent in the twilight to a great golden ball on the line of the hills. And waned and waned and waned, month in and month out, year after year and century after century. Of the perennials in the garden that flowered each summer. Of the earth that turned on its axis and flew around the sun. And of the sun itself, that moved in its great orbit through the universe. And my imagination returned to the earth and thought of the rhythm of human beings, and the cycles of the race, and of the beat of my own heart and the pulse in my wrist, and the tidal rise and fall of a man's happiness and of a number of other things.

And sitting there in that moonlit garden, it came to me that it was not of routine, at all, that I was weary. I had confused routine with drudgery—and they are not identical. I had mistaken the necessary and lovely routine of life with the mean, slavish and murderous repetition of futile acts. . . And of course I had been unhappy.

I had required the bright moon and the faint stars and the reminder of the seed in the earth and the seasons in the year and passage of our round home through the heavens to make me recall the difference between the routine that preserves the best of life and the drudgery that kills the soul of man. . . Because there is purpose at the heart of routine, but only torture in drudgery. Routine is what I do gladly for myself or those I love, but drudgery is the task imposed upon me from without.

I thank the summer night for this blessed reminder.

DEAR MISS MARKEL—Should I have full-length draperies or short ones on my living room windows? What is the rule about this?

Answer—Long window draperies reaching to the floor give a very attractive appearance, particularly to the living room.

Of course, not every type of window can stand decoration of this kind. But should yours have plain framework and small sills, try this sometime and see how effective it really is.

Do not, however, cover up in this manner, any interesting feature of your windows or their framework. If there are such features, choose decorations that will in no way hide their design. If your sills are wide and extended, your draperies must be short, just clearing the sill.

If asked to give ten words which, in my opinion, are most mispronounced by people who are supposed to be educated, I should list the following:

Alles—correctly pronounced AL-LES. Brassiere—which is bra-se-air and not bra-zeer. February—FEB-ru-ary and not FEB-u-ary—remember the "r" before the "u." Vanilla—the SELL syllable is NIL and not NELL. Sarsaparilla—pronounced SARRS-pa-ril-la, not sass-pa-rella. Linger—lan-zher-ree instead of long-ger-ay. Garage—gar-ahzh—not the harsh "g" too common here. Preventative—correctly pronounced pre-VEN-ta-tive—the third syllable "ta" is too frequently omitted. Interpretative—there are five syllables in this word, the fourth of which is erroneously omitted. In-TER-pre-ta-tive. Amateur—which is correctly pronounced AM-a-ter not am-a-choor. ## The World At A Glance

New Deal Lawyers Marked Men.
Men Who Draft Laws Exposed.
Termed "Ambassadors To Congress."

By LESLIE RICHEL

Central Press Columnist

BLAZING PUBLICITY finally has descended on "the two most brilliant young men of the New Deal" (as they have been described)—Thomas Gardiner Corcoran, 36, and Benjamin Victor Cohen, soon to be 43. The, are the administration lawyers who have drafted the majority of the New Deal laws in the last few years—the measures that have stood up so far.

Corcoran went from a New York law firm in 1932 to the Reconstruction Finance corporation as a law clerk.

Cohen, likewise a New York lawyer, came to Washington in 1933 as general counsel of the PWA. Both Corcoran and Cohen had brilliant financial futures in New York. They have made monetary sacrifices to remain in Washington. But each has become inspired by the New Deal, each now is looked upon as an evangel.

Thus the guns of the "enemy" now veer toward these young men, who have turned out to be among the ablest lieutenants President Roosevelt has. New Dealers say.

Recently congress voted the president six new assistants. Now, according to observers in Washington, if the enemy's gunfire is turned too furiously on Corcoran and Cohen, they may become "marked men" and be of little use as "ambassadors to congress." And it is envoys to congress the president needs so badly.

UNOBTUSIVE MEN

The president, however, needs unobtrusive men, or men who have not yet drawn fire. He needs also, the Corcorans and the Cohens, to draw up the measures, his supporters point out. But he needs, foremost, men who can convince congress that congress itself should call upon the Corcorans and Cohens to aid it. Indeed, the president willingly would put the Corcorans and the Cohens entirely at the disposal of congress, if congress would accept their aid.

To accomplish this, it is believed that the president needs at the moment men who can completely obscure themselves in the commingled men who are intense workers, humanitarians and folksy. Men who can converse with friend and foe in chatty manner, but who never are forward, who permit the other man to take the lead. That is especially important when the other man is a senator or a representative, jealous or "executive usurpation."

Withal, however, these men would not abate the New Deal one iota; indeed, would pave the way for further extensions. This, of course, is a prime consideration in selecting men for positions so vital to the New Deal.

The president is presumed to be searching for such men, indeed, must find them, if he is to continue with his New Deal. This diving session of congress has demonstrated that to the administration.

WILL IT WORK?

If such men can be uncovered that type does not clamor for appointment; rather, shuns politics, can they convince congress?

Perhaps. Judging the average congressman much as one judges the average man at home, one would say that he would appreciate it if an assistant to the president dropped in on him, put his feet on the desk, began talking in a folksy, humble attitude, made fun of the New Dealers and Anti-New Dealers, discussed the folk back home, their hopes and their trends—and their probable vote next election.

Then, there could be an exchange of ideas as to what's best, in the

POLITICIANS POWER DRUNK

In the vernacular, a "Mexican standoff" is the type of combat which finds two punch-drunk pugilists receiving a referee's draw after fifteen furious rounds.

The phrase was coined by the American cartoonist, A. A. (Tad) Dorgan, who was an expert in Mexican politics, but the expression is particularly applicable below our southern border today. From what has occurred down there, everybody will lose, nobody will win.

A few days ago President Lazero Cardenas exercised his government's appropriation law, and took the railroad over.

What happened? Private railroad stockholders lost whatever money they still could count on paper. The workers condemned the appropriation as a "fascist" move to deprive them of their right to bargain collectively. Mexicans in general will soon be paying heavier taxes while their government studies the handbook on "How to Run a Railroad."

Today, excessive regulation and cost-raising legislation are threatening to force American railroads toward a "Mexican standoff." Congress is considering a six-hour day measure and a train-limit measure in the face of increased pay demands from railroad workers. Of course, the United States government is not going to commandeer the roads by decree. But if it heaps costs on them to a point where private industry cannot operate them profitably, the ultimate result might be the same.

Before her lesson is learned Mexico may have taken the short step which separates government control from abolition of all private ownership—communism. The prospect of a communist state at our back door is unpleasant. A communist state within our own borders would be unthinkable.

We should watch Mexico's trend, and walk warily ourselves.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 14th

August 14 in History—Writers rarely are able to forecast posterity's judgment on their own work. Yet, in a letter written Aug. 14, 1725, to Charles Ford, Jonathan Swift said: "I have just finished my Travels, and I am now transcribing them; they are admirable things, and will wonderfully mend the world."

He referred, of course, to Gulliver's Travels, one of the most enduring literary classics, which has wonderfully mended sorrow of many in the world with its satire.

It was long after Swift's death before the personal influences which molded his literary viewpoints and work were known. And it is only now that the circumstances which had the greatest impress upon the novels and plays of the late John Galsworthy is becoming known, through such books as his widow's "Dear Dogs" and his published letters. Galsworthy was born Aug. 14, 1867.

He wrote first under the name

They noted the date in their diaries and years later they were able to attach significance to the dream. For August 15, 1769 was the birthdate of Napoleon Bonaparte.

SOUTH SIDE PASTOR TO LEAD PARK SERVICE

Pastor Central Christian Will Preach At Park

Rev. Thomas B. Shearer Will Be Heard At Union Outdoor Service

BRASS QUARTET TO PROVIDE PRELUDE

The vesper services conducted on Sunday evening in Cascade Park will be in charge of Rev. Thomas B. Shearer pastor of the Central Christian church and chairman of the park services committee of the New Castle Ministerial Association.

In the weeks that have passed the services have proven to be of value and that planned for tomorrow evening will be no exception. The services are for the entire community although conducted each week by different church groups.

For the prelude at 6:45 the brass quartet has prepared the following numbers: "Stand Up For Jesus" by Webb, "March Militaire" by Schubert, polka, "Martha" by Flotow and "Have Thine Own Way" by Stebbins. For the offertory the quartet will play "Lost Chord" by Sullivan and for the postlude, "God Be With You" by Tomer.

About Brass Quartet
The quartet plays each Sunday evening, but it not always comprised of the same musicians. Four players are selected from the following group: cornets, Arthur Gorman, Alfred Sadler, Edward Candioti, David Cramer, Robert Evans and Henry Gollis; trombones, Tom Cramer and Donald Cloak; baritone, Charles Coulter; tuba, Richard Cramer and accompanist, Jane Bryan and Mrs. C. P. Cloak. Tom Cramer has been in charge since the quartet was started several years ago.

Due to sickness and vacations various combinations have played this year, such as three cornets, and one trombone, two cornets and two trombones, and so forth. Arthur Gorman has been able to play only one Sunday as he has been attending the University of Michigan summer school where he will return this fall as assistant instructor of cornet. Charles Coulter, David and Dick Cramer together with Carl Shearer have been attending the Ohio State band camp at Cedar Point for the last several weeks. Charles and David were honored when they were called on as soloists at several of the concerts this year. In the evening her address will be supplemented by stereophonic pictures of the African tribes and their environment.

Alfred Sadler, Donald Cloak, Tom

Cramer and Edward Candioti are at Geneva-on-the-Lake, but expect to return Sunday in time for the park service.

The Ministerial Association and the congregations have been enthusiastic over the quality of music played at the union services. In spite of the very bad weather on several occasions, the services this year have been a real success, and a small part of the credit goes to these boys of the brass quartet.

Order Of Service
At 7 p. m. the service proper will open and will be as follows:
Invocation.
Hymn, "Beneath the Cross of Jesus."
Scripture Lesson.
Anthem, "Hosanna in the Highest" by Dr. Alfred Woeller.
Prayer.
Announcement and offertory.
Baritone solo, "Sunrise," sung by Dave Lewis.
Sermon, "Bring on the Whale" — Rev. Thomas B. Shearer.
Prayer.
Hymn, "O Jesus, I Have Promised."
Benediction.
Dave Lewis Directing

Music will be furnished during the service proper by the choir of Central Christian church under the direction of Dave Lewis, with Roy Strobel at the piano. Ushers will also be from the sponsoring church.

After nearly 12 years at McKeesport's First church, Rev. Lynch entered the Mt. Washington Baptist pastorate of Pittsburgh last fall.

Miss Viola Wilcox, missionary to Africa, will speak at both services Sunday in the First Pentecostal church. In the evening her address will be supplemented by stereophonic pictures of the African tribes and their environment.

A CONGRESSMAN'S WISH?

A congressman, above all, desires to be the one to direct a Congressman or a Cohen to draw up a bill with at least a phrase or a thought of his in a leading position. He believes he is entitled to be the boss, not the bossed.

And, if it is recognized that he is the boss, then he may find in his heart (and his constituency) that the New Deal—as, however, congress handles it, if you please—is what he desired all the time. And tomorrow he is going to send word to Mr. Roosevelt by one of his assistants—not a bad fellow—that he would like to have this or that done. And this fellow will see that Mr. Roosevelt gets it done.

The Russian general who reviewed this application wrote a tart letter in reply indicating that a captaincy was enough for an inexperienced youth to expect. Bonaparte naturally ignored the letter. How much this incident had to do with his later determination to humble Russia, is an interesting speculation. Anyway, when Napoleon had become master of half of Europe, his application was found in Russian files. Czar Alexander had the old general who had denied it court-martialed and shot.

Slippery Rock Church History Is Presented

Second Of A Series Of Stories Of Early History Of District's Old Churches

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 14.—Slippery Rock Presbyterian church, of which first official mention is recorded on June 26, 1799, 23 years after the signing of the Declaration of Independence, is the mother of four churches of that denomination in this district, namely, North Sewickley, Newport, First Church and Bell Memorial.

The victory of Gen. Wayne over the Indians in this region in the year 1794, made possible the settlement of the region between the Allegheny and Ohio rivers and Lake Erie. In 1798 there were a good many people scattered through this section and a stupendous burden of settling the land lay upon these for the most part Scotch-Irish pioneers.

Coming to settle in this vicinity were some eight persons from Fayette county. They were William and Benjamin Cunningham, Abel Henson, Robert and Samuel Gastor, William Cairns, Charles Morrow and John Moore. Others who settled near here in 1800 were Joseph Henderson, Hugh Wilson, Abraham McCurdy, John Newton and Moses Matheny, and today many of their descendants still reside in this district.

The greater part of Wayne township was in the Chew district and was divided into four hundred acre tracts and each settler on a tract was entitled to half of it for settling.

Of unwholesome logs, the first houses were constructed, and glass being rarely seen, greased linen or paper usually served the purpose. Furniture was only of the most essential pieces. Clothing was wool prepared and woven by hand. Flax was woven into linen and used for bedding. Shoes were leather, roughly tanned.

These early settlers brought with them training in Bible and Catechism. Consequently they arranged to have some of their former pastors visit them. In 1799 Elisha McCurdy and Joseph Stockton made their first preaching tour through these settlements. On these tours these men went as far north as Erie and there being no bridges between the Ohio river and Erie, they had to swim the streams, with the result that often they had to meet the people at the appointed places with dripping clothes.

The name of the church has always been Slippery Rock, named for the creek on whose banks the first meetings were held. Allen's Grist Mill, located near the mouth of the creek was the first meeting place.

A complete list of the first members is not available but some of them were Jesse Bell, William Cairns and Nancy, Joseph Henson and Margaret, William Cunningham and Mary, Jonathan Pennard and Elizabeth, Jacob Van Gorder and Margaret, Andrew Elliott and Lucy, Isaac Cole and Jane, and Thomas and William Henry. It is interesting to know that the latter was the first sheriff of Beaver county, having received the office by appointment from the governor.

At a meeting of Erie presbytery held in 1802 the congregation of Slippery Rock and Lower Neshannock (i. e., New Castle) reported they were together able to support a minister full time and requested that they be permitted to present a call to Alexander Cook, of Ohio presbytery. In 1803 he was installed and at that time Slippery Rock was stronger in numbers than the congregation at New Castle so that Mr. Cook took up his abode within the bounds of this congregation.

The people continued to meet in the Allen Mill and soon after built a log church near the present building. This church lacked many of those things now deemed essential. While it is true that "they went in the morning with their axes and the church was finished by night," this first church did involve both work and sacrifice. This building for a time lacked seats so that people were compelled to stand or sit upon the ground. But this condition did not last long, for soon one family constructed for themselves a seat, being a split log with four sticks driven into it for legs. Those not having seats criticized this new departure severely, saying "they want to be most aristocratic than the rest of us." When stoves were put in they wondered, "What are we coming to anyway, such extravagance and effeminacy will be our ruin." The men and women would walk barefoot for long distances carrying their shoes and before reaching the church, would sit down and put them on.

One of the first pastors received a salary of $300 a year, from the two churches and the greatest part of this was oats, wheat, corn, linen and wool.

In 1835, a frame church was erected, much in appearance like the present church which was built in 1863. Shortly after 1838 the Sunday school was organized which has ever since proved to be a source of

N. S. Grangers Plan Daddy's Night

Fifty Members Participate In Picnic Event Held At Huber's Beach

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 14.—A special "Daddy's Night" will be held in the near future at the North Sewickley township grange on the Ellwood-New Brighton road, according to plans made by the grangers at their regular meeting held on Friday evening.

The annual picnic of the grangers took place last evening at Huber's Beach at North Sewickley and was a most successful event. At 7 o'clock the 50 members attending gathered at one long table where they were served an appetizing and completely satisfying supper. The meal was served under the direction of Mrs. G. N. Wise, assisted by a group of women.

Ball games and horse shoe pitching were the diversions of the early evening after which the regular business session was held.

On Friday evening, September 10, the members will participate in a "travelling Bible" program, and many other activities were planned for the early fall. The next regular meeting is scheduled for Friday evening, August 27.

Cars Damaged In Collision

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 14.—Two cars, one owned by Miss Mary Thomas, of Ellport, and the other by Henry McNany, of Fourth Ward, were badly damaged on Friday afternoon when they collided on the Ellwood-Burnstown road.

While no report has been made to the local police, Miss Thomas, driving in the direction of Ellport, alleges that the McNany car travelling in the direction of Ellwood, was on the wrong side of the road.

The drivers of the cars were uninjured.

A. M. L. Members Plan Breakfast

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 14.—The home of Mrs. Ferd Zeigler, of Pittsburgh Circle, was the scene of an enjoyable gathering on Friday evening when members of the A. M. L. club were entertained.

Mrs. George Moyer and Miss Sallie Hazen, were special guests. Two tables of bridge was the pastime of the evening with prizes going to Mrs. H. E. Wilson and Miss Hazen. The hostess served a prettily appointed lunch.

Mrs. David Williams invited the group to hold their next meeting on Friday, August 27, in the form of a breakfast at her summer cottage near Revick.

MECKLEM REUNION

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 14.—The twenty-third annual reunion of the descendants of Samuel and Michael McDaniel Mecklem will be held on Saturday, August 21, at Huber's beach, North Sewickley with picnic meals at noon and the evening dinner at 7 o'clock. Fifty copies of the family tree have been prepared and will be available for the members.

Porter Candidate
For County Sheriff

Seeks Nomination At Republican Party Primaries On September 14

EDWIN A. PORTER

I am announcing my candidacy for the Republican nomination for Sheriff of Lawrence County. I was a candidate for this nomination four years ago, at which time the voters were most gracious in giving me a very large and complimentary vote. I have always been grateful for the kindness shown to me by all of the voters at that time.

I am fifty-six years of age, having been born and raised in New Bedford, in Pulaski township. My father was the late Louis L. Porter, a Veteran of the Civil War. When I had completed the common and high school courses at New Bedford, I came to New Castle, thirty-six years ago. I worked for four years in a grocery store and then learned the carpenter trade, which trade I have followed continuously ever since. For twenty-two years of that time I was a contracting carpenter and as such I always recognized the several Craft Unions, signed Union scales, paid Union wages and employed only Union men. While a contractor, I supervised and administered building business amounting to as much as $75,000.00 in a year.

For the past four years I have been a supervisor for the CWA, RWD and WPA, and as such, I have been personally interested in seeing that every worker employed under me was rated as high as was possible, to the end that every man under me might earn the best possible living.

I believe that the sheriff's office in Lawrence County has been efficiently and economically administered and I promise the voters that I will try, if elected, to continue the good service in that office which the people have come to expect and have a right to expect.

I have lived on the east side for twenty-eight years, and I am now residing in the Fourth Ward, where I am a taxpayer. I have always been a Republican and for that reason enter the Republican primaries, but I have received kindness from all the voters of the county and will always appreciate the support of my fellow citizens, no matter in which party they may be affiliated.

No special interests have induced me to run for this office and, if I am elected, I will administer the office so as not to promote any special privilege. My ambition will be to serve all of the people honestly; to do the duties of my office with courtesy and consideration, but with courage; and to endeavor not to cause any unnecessary expense either to the county or to any person, who necessarily has business with that office. I will see to it that all of the employees of the sheriff's office continue to observe, as has been the custom in that office, that they are public servants, charged with the administration of the law. I will appreciate the support of all persons, who attest their belief in me by their votes.

First name on ballot.
Respectfully,

Broadway Tales Are Remembered

MyIntyre Finds Reminiscing
With Restaurant Patrons
A Real Treat

GAMBLERS ARE PUZZLE ADDICTS

By O. O. MINTYRE
NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—It is a treat now and then to sit at Lindy's or Dinty Moore's as night wanes and nibble the table d'hôte in their remembering-when. Tales of the actors and boulevardiers when Broadway was robust with romance. A rechauffé of gone gallantries.
Such as: Maud Adams registered in one hotel suite and slept in another to avoid interviews. Stories of the million dollar failure, Café de l'Opera. How the old Waldorf was the first hotel to make a cover charge for bread and butter and the howl that followed.
When the St. Regis opened it was classed as the world's most magnificent inn. E. R. Thomas, race track plunger, slept in a suite that had $10,000 twin beds. When Harry Lauder was on tour, his wife made mutton broth for him twice a week. He liked a complete meal of this dish.
Three men profess to have heard

Valentino one night, over after theatre coffee, say he would like to die within two years. He did within a month of that time. He was melancholy because his hair was beginning to thin. He did not want to live in discard.

Waiters in rowdy old Jack's on Sixth avenue probably had the closest labor organization of all. Only members of their families, relatives and friends—all Irish—could get jobs there as waiters or bus boys. In those days all dining room employees went through apprenticeship. A bus boy rose to waitership, a waiter to captaincy, etc.

Two grand old troupers are York and King. Rose York played "Little Eva" with Thomas Jefferson at eight. She met Chic King on a medicine show 29 years ago and they married. Often they stroll Broadway hand in hand, proving there's still permanency in theatrical marriage.

Jim Regan, although director of the most fashionable inn of his time, The Knickerbocker, was hard-boiled of his guild. He had his genesis as a barkeeper in days of long starter rule on Third avenue. He was up at 6 a. m. to taste the coffee. One day George M. Cohan and John Mason, guests, complained jestingly to Regan of the tilt in cocktails. Regan lost his sense of humor and waxed wroth. Cohan checked out and went to the Claridge and helped make that hotel famous. Regan also asked Caruso to leave because the singer tinkered with an electric clock and got it out of whack.

Not many knew John Drew, the actor, was stone blind his last days. It was known only to his family and a few intimates. He would go to the theatre and during intermissions, to keep his blindness from being recognized, appear on the arm of a friend deep in conversation.

Gamblers are usually cross word puzzle addicts and enthusiastic about anagrams. Indeed, any game that requires numbers of mind. Such as remembering merely "Roy G. Biv" to recall the colors in the spectrum. R. for red, O. for orange, Y. for yellow, G. for green, B. for blue, I for indigo and V. for violet.

When they begin to chivy up Fifth avenue's past, someone recalls Hannah Elias, rich colored woman, who drove her Victoria with white coachman and footman. And Mrs. Belmont's coach and four with trumpeter swaying from the Plaza to Washington Arch at 5 each afternoon. Also The Man in White, sans hat, who publicized himself winter and summer in hope of getting a job as a singer.

Al Jolson is known for his swings to the jaw. His most notable sock was when he knocked out a six foot detective in John Horgan's famous hotel in Cincinnati when the dick made a slurping remark about Jolson's race. Mrs. Leslie Carter used to wangle headlines on Page One by refusing, when on tour, to take a suite if the management did not have decorations that matched her wardrobe. And E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe on the road visited church daily.

Matthews, On Visit, Boosts New Castle Club In California

Watkins C. H. Matthews, retired rural mail carrier of the New Castle post office, is home from California for a short vacation in which he hopes to promote local interest in the Ramblers' club, a fellowship organization of New Castle residents living on the Pacific coast.

Mr. Matthews said:
"The Ramblers' club has reunions twice a year and at those New Castle people get together. We're hoping to enlarge the scope of the organization, to see that more people are members."
Mr. Matthews suggested that local residents furnish him with names of relatives or friends who reside in California, in and around Los Angeles. He plans to return west in a few weeks, but mail will reach him.

Superintendent of Mails David B. Thomas will see to it that Mr. Matthews gets the mail if letters from interested residents are sent in Mr. Matthews, care of general delivery, New Castle, Pa.

Train Hits Truck On Mercer Crossing

MERCER, Aug. 14.—A truck loaded with scrap glass was demolished and its contents scattered along the Bessemer railroad crossing on the Mercer-Franklin road when struck by a southbound passenger train yesterday.

It was reported that the truck was proceeding toward Franklin and stalled on the crossing at the foot of Bald hill. The driver, Richard Nail of Youngstown, O., and his brother, Leo Nail, owner of the truck, were able to leave the cab before the collision.
The engine pilot was slightly damaged but the train continued on to its destination, East Pittsburgh.

Friday, Thirteenth Club, Enjoys Dinner

Only Gathering Of This Year
Finds Large Number Of Members Attending

Defying the traditional superstitions of Friday, the thirteenth, members of the Friday, The Thirteenth club, which is composed of past commanders of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, assembled for the only gathering which will take place this year last evening. They had a dinner and program in the Leslie hotel.

An informal program took place. R. Loy Boyd being chairman of the evening. Most of the local members were in attendance and an enjoyable evening was spent.
Before disbanding the club elected William S. Lewis chairman for the next gathering, which will take place on Friday, May 13, 1938, which incidentally will be the only gathering next year.

AROUND CITY HALL

"Parking meters are good." This is what one travelling salesman told the writer yesterday at a local business house. The salesman described his experience at Sharon. He said he had a system of "stops." For each "stop" he paid his parking fee of five cents. Usually it cost him 15 cents a day to transact his business. "Does your company bear the parking expense?" he was asked. The man replied negatively, adding that he is employed on a commission basis.

Most citizens will agree that the action of Mayor Charles E. McGrath in not fining most of the violators of the parking meters ordinance for their errors on the first day was good judgment. Some of the violators, unfamiliar with the meters either failed to turn the crank when they inserted a nickel, stayed too long in one zone or failed to pay anything. In discussing the tags the police handed out in an educational campaign, the mayor said only those who displayed a disposition wilfully escape obeying the law were fined.

Cecil Suber, lieutenant of police, will return to duty Monday. Meanwhile reports have reached the writer of Cecil's "muskie" catch at Lake Le Boeuf. He went there with Bill Carlin and caught a 41 inch "lunge." He used a plug and a 15 pound test line and was satisfied not to get another one the same day. He had quite a fight to land the big fish which had teeth one inch long.

Farr Is Given Fine Chance To Defeat Louis

Tommy Farr Is Very Impressive In His Training Session

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—From something that started out as a picnic solo, the Louis-Farr fight suddenly began making a noise like a calliope today, with apparently better than a fair chance of finishing behind a band wagon in the 12 days remaining before the young men begin bopping each other in the ring at the Yankee stadium. Oddly, Louis, the champion, isn't the answer this time. It's being furnished by Farr, the British empire challenger for the heavyweight title.

He seems so sure of his right that he's got everybody guessing and moreover, after talking a superb prize fight for the first few weeks out here, he's now beginning to behave like one. He gave a pretty good show two days ago at Long Branch; so good, in fact, that a lot of people are prattling now about the possibility of a great upset on the night of the 26th.

Farr impresses. Naturally, promoter Jacobs would very much like to have this sort of thing continue and, in fact, gain momentum with the passing days. So he weighed in this morning with a statement that, if the writing boys really want to get seriously impressed with Farr, they would do well to give him very narrowly during the next ten days.

"He's ready now to really begin pitching," says Mr. Jacobs. "This isn't just promotion chatter. The guy has been a good fighter all along and how he's going to prove it." Admitting the possibility that maybe by this time Jacobs is even beginning to believe himself and conceding that he has more than just a friendly interest in the Louis camp, the fact is that the latter seems to be taking the British champion far more seriously than anybody expected. They're even been working about those left hooks of his, the idea being that crouchers like Farr and Schmeling are likely to slip a lead like that and counter with a right, full upon the visage.

Has No Left. Schmeling did it and knocked Louis flatter than a job of paving. Farr could do it and maybe go 15 rounds or even steal the show, the decision and the title. Ever Bradley, a stand-up fighter, was able to do it in Chicago, scoring a flash knockdown in the first minute of play.

So they're telling Louis to lead with a snappy straight left, which would be and is quite all right, except for this: Louis hasn't got a snappy straight left.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

There is no flash in the pan stuff about Henry Armstrong, California featherweight. He scored his 14th knockout in 15 starts last night at New York when he stopped Irish Eddie Brink of Scranton in the third round. The boys were scheduled to go 10 rounds. Armstrong weighed 138 and Brink 135 3-4. It was an overweight match. Eddie Mead, Cleveland, and formerly of New York, handles Armstrong. Mead will be remembered here, having brought several scrappers to the bowl.

Pittsburgh fans are being steamed up over the coming Italo Colonnello-John Henry Lewis fight next Wednesday night at Forbes field. Italo is training at Nate Liff's camp along Babcock boulevard, known as Eagle's nest. Italo is 24 and during three years in the ring has had about 30 fights.

They charged into the final yesterday when McCormick humbled Andy Szewko of Pittsburgh 5 and 4, and Erickson gave Frank Toronto of Sacramento a 4 and 3 setback.

Arthur J. Rooney, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates pro football team has presented a gift of $10,000 to St. Paul's orphanage. Dominion Grattan broke a fourth heat record at Goshen when Tom Berry drove her to win the mile pace in 2:00. The old mark was 2:02 made in 1920 by Margaret Dillon. A short time later yesterday Calumet Evelyn and Rosalind established a record for a three heat established a record for the first heat in 2:01 and Calumet Evelyn the last two heats in 2:00 1-4 and 2:00 1-5.

At Rye, N. Y., yesterday, Jadwiga Jedzejowska of Poland qualified for another meeting with Alice Marble of San Francisco, U. S. champion, in the women's single of the Eastern grass courts tennis championship. She beat Gracyan Wheeler, fourth ranking American, 6-3, 6-0. Frankie Parker beat Hal Sargent 4-6, 7-5, 6-4. Stock Market
Higher Today

Steels, Rails, Oils And Utilities Above Previous Closings

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The stock market gained a little additional ground today in its third successive rise, although advances were negligible in comparison to Friday's extensive upswing.

Cotton retained initial gains of $1 despite later realizing. Grains eased fractionally except corn, which gained about a cent a bushel. Bonds were irregularly higher, although governments again were backward.

Eastman Kodak was the individual market star, soaring more than seven points for a better new 1937 top, its fourth of the week. Socony Vacuum and National Steel also climbed into new high ground for the year.

Most steels, rails, oils and utilities were above previous closings, but the steady influx of profit-taking kept gains down to a minimum. Coppers were sluggish again on the reactionary price trend.

Standard Oil of New Jersey, Westinghouse and Chrysler each were up about a point at one time.

Enforcement Agents Capture Car Laden With Liquor Near Mt. Jackson

Liquor enforcement agents Friday afternoon placed Charles Isaac of 12 West Reynolds street under arrest on a charge of violating the state liquor laws. He was taken before Alderman James C. Brice, when he was held for a hearing next week on a charge of possessing and transporting liquor. Bail was fixed at $1,000.

Isaac's arrest came as the result of the liquor enforcement agents stopping a car on the Enon Valley-Mt. Jackson road, just beyond Mt. Jackson, at 1:30 Friday afternoon, which is alleged to have contained 50 gallons of moonshine liquor. The driver of the car, said by the agents to have been Arthur Kresty, escaped. Isaac, it is claimed, was the owner of the car.

In connection with the arrest of Isaac and the capture of the truck, the agents made a raid in Beaver county, where it is stated 140 more gallons of liquor was discovered.

New Flood Control Projects

Map prepared by U. S. government engineers showing where first steps in flood control in western Pennsylvania are being taken. Arrows point to three dams on which work is scheduled to begin. The black lines are actual reservoirs; the shaded areas are the watersheds affected by the plan.

Work on the federal government's six-year flood control plan for western Pennsylvania is ready to begin. First two reservoirs to be built will be Tionesta and Crooked Creek dams. If sufficient funds are designated, Mahoning and Loyalhanna dams will follow, although it is expected that a dam on the Conemaugh river above Johnstown will be the third project. The state is responsible for the cost of land and property damage up to half the total cost. The state's contribution toward the first two dams will be approximately $2,000,000 compared with about $9,000,000 federal contribution.

WASHINGTON AT A GLANCE

Copeland Blast Is Loudest Yet

Anti-New Deal Outburst Of New York Senator Is Appraised In Capital

BILL IS AIMED AT ROOSEVELT

Central Press Washington Bureau 602 Times-Herald Bldg. — By CHARLES P. STEWART, Central Press Columnist. WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Senator Royal S. Copeland's recent anti-Rooseveltian outburst was more violent than any that the most conservative of southern Democratic senators or even than the Republicans have indulged in.

The southern conservatives are anti-New Deal, to be sure, but they do not express themselves against the White House tenant personally. Senator Copeland did so express HIMSELF. He not only referred to what he considered a spade as a spade. He raised the issue of veracity also. The president denies that he is trying to enure the senator out of the New York City Democratic mayoralty nomination. The senator asserts that this is just what "F. D." is trying to do—in favor of Jeremiah T. Mahoney, New Deal Democrat, opposing the old-line Tammany organization. Senator Copeland is backed by Al Smith and the Manhattan Tammany organization, while the leaders of the four other boroughs support Mahoney. Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, as a Fusionist candidate, will oppose the winner of the September primary.

A JOB The doctor-senator's advocacy of a constitutional amendment limiting all presidents to two four-year terms each likewise plainly was intended as a jab, not at presidents in general, but at President Roosevelt in particular.

Senator Charles L. McNary has made a similar suggestion, but that was different, for McNary is the Republicans' senate leader. As a prominent G. O. P. strategist, it was natural for McNary to imply that "F. D." is maneuvering for a third term and that he (McNary) thought that it would be establishing a bad precedent to let him "get away with it."

ELSEWHERE

By the way—The rule that a president must not succeed himself does not work very well in practice.

It is the rule in several republics. I once lived in one of them—Argentina. The term is six years and the president is not eligible to re-election upon its expiration, but he can be re-elected after a six-year interval. The result is that, once in office, he shapes all his policies with a view of being followed by a dummy of his own, who can be relied on to pass the job back to him later. But the system does not make for any extra presidential independence. It operates the other way, if anything.

Incidentally, voting is compulsory in the Argentine—fine or imprisonment if you do not cast your ballot. The scheme has more merit than appears at first sight.

Originally balloting was open. All sundry could see the ballots as they were deposited. This enabled the bosses to buy or intimidate the electorate. So secret voting was decreed. The bosses still were in a position, however, to scare folk they were suspicious of away from the polls. If a known "anti" insisted on voting at all, he knew what was coming to him subsequently.

So the compulsory method was adopted to MAKE him vote, and to prevent him from being intimidated. It is not absolutely effective, but it is partially so.

OVERDONE?

To get back, nevertheless, to Senator Copeland—

He created a sensation, all right. Yet I'm entirely sure that he did not overdo matters. Democratic politicians like Vice President Garner and Senators Byrd, Bailey, Smith, Tydings and Harrison are anti-New Deal, certainly, but they are doing their best to preserve party solidarity.

In short—

New Deal, Rooseveltian Democrats.

Anti-New Deal Democrats, but disposed to be pro-Rooseveltian, if possible.

New Deal Democrats, who are anti-Rooseveltian on the court (and some other issues). Democrats like Senator Copeland, Democrats who call themselves Progressives or Independents, like Senators La Follette and Norris. Miscellaneous Democrats. And finally there are a few Republicans. Sort that out.

Pennsylvania Has Great Scenic Appeal

By WARREN VAN DYKE, Chairman Pennsylvania Publicity Commission

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—A great industrial empire... yet one of the most scenic and historic states in the Union—birthplace of American history. Such is Pennsylvania!

Nature has endowed this commonwealth with a wealth of natural beauty, making it an ideal year-round vacationland. Enthralling offerings delight the eye, whether it be eastern, central or western Pennsylvania that is visited.

More than 30,000 miles of improved state highway—the greatest in the United States—enables the motorist to easily reach the matchless scenes that make this the "Scenic State." This vast network of modern traffic arteries not only runs the length and breadth of our state, but threads through miles and miles of beautiful mountains, farming and resort sections.

Pennsylvania has a diversity of scenic beauties. It has rugged mountains—such as the cool, green Poconos, the Alleghenies and the Blue rivers, majestic waterfalls, virgin forests and thousands of acres of farms and orchards.

This state abounds not only with the best in Mother Nature's handiwork, but with historic and educational points of interest.

It has here in Pennsylvania wood that our nation was founded. That wooded beauty which delighted the pioneer still makes our mountains and valleys the tourist's mecca. This great and fertile land, settled 300 years ago, still preserves its old landmarks and its historic shrines, giving testimony to the epoch-making events that have immortalized our Commonwealth.

Here the Continental Congress met; here the Liberty Bell rang out the news of the Declaration of Independence; and here the first national capital was established. The Constitution was written and signed here. A great constitutional celebration, extending through September, is being held now in commemoration of that historic event.

The spirit of William Penn, the spirit of hospitality that led him to extend a welcome to all people, still lives in Pennsylvania. The invitation that he extended has never again won the coolness of mountain retreats or the thrill of exploring new and different places of interest, see Pennsylvania first.

Every Pennsylvanian should join the drive of the state publicity commission to popularize the Keystone State.

Registration Clerk Thomas Edmunds is making out a list of registrations to send to the state department at Harrisburg. The list is to include the number of male and female registrations, color, whether white or black, party affiliations, and previous conditions of servitude.

A truck load of boxes containing blanks to be used by County Treasurer Joseph H. Hartland in setting up the new system of keeping delinquent tax accounts is piled upon the corridor of the court house. The data for the records is being prepared by a corps of WPA workers, who are also domiciled in the corridor. As the county commissioners are also in the corridor, nobody gets lonely.

Friday, the 13th, was a lucky day for officials and employees of the court house as it was payday. It didn't matter much how superstitious folks may be about other things, they're always willing to take money on the 13th, or any other day they can get their claws on it.

In the estate of the late Joseph S. Young of Neshannock township, letters testamentary have been issued by Register and Recorder Hanna to May Austa Anderson, Letters in the estate of the late Frank A. Haine of Ellwood City, have been issued to The Lawrence Savings and Trust Company.

In the case of the Universal Sales Company against C. R. Hamilton an answer to a petition to open judgment has been filed in which it is denied that the defendant agreed to buy a truck with a 148 inch wheel base for $1,390. On the contrary it is claimed that the defendant signed an order for a truck with a 136 inch wheel base for which he was to pay $1,396. Defendant paid the amount except for a note of $75 on judgment was entered, which led to the present controversy.

There are now 176 mothers receiving mothers' pensions in Lawrence county according to the records of County Controller, Frank Hill. The mothers have a total of 441 children. The monthly payroll is $6,183.72. Of this amount the county pays one-third and the state and Federal government, two thirds.

Miss Hazel Kenny, Clerk of Courts of Beaver county, who was here yesterday with Deputy Sheriff, Charles O'Laughlin and Miss Genevieve Hilger, was not very favorably impressed with the Lawrence county court house. She said it was not near as nice as Beaver county's. Yes, but Lawrence county's debt is not near as large as Beaver county's and our citizens don't have to lay awake nights wondering.

Thousand Fail To Gain Entrance To State College

Huge Number Of Applicants Seek To Enter Freshman Class

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Aug. 14.—One thousand high school graduates qualified for admission to the next freshman class at the Pennsylvania State College have been turned away—refused because of the physical limitations of the plant at the college.

This condition exists with the scheduled opening of college some five weeks away. By that time Registrar William S. Hoffman expects to have 3000 applications on his desk. Admission can be granted to but 1405 students because of lack of accommodations in college buildings and the present size of the teaching faculty.

"I am exceedingly sorry to report that the freshman quota has been filled," Hoffman said today. "The results of the recent aptitude tests given in various cities of the State has brought the freshman class well over its quota."

"At the present time we have turned away 1000 applicants for admission. This represents, I believe, the all-time high mark among students applying for admission to the Pennsylvania State College. The condition is unfortunate, but because of the physical limitations and the present size of the faculty the board of trustees was faced with the necessity of limiting the next freshman class to 1405 members."

July Good For Fruit, Potatoes In Pennsylvania

Month Is Handicap To Farmers In Harvesting Due To Frequent Rains

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—Fruit and potato crops reaped favorably generally to the July weather in Pennsylvania with prospects of a good crop in sight but the month proved a handicap to farmers in harvesting their crops because of the frequent rains and extreme warm, the federal-state crop reporting service announced today.

Grain and hay was forced to remain in the fields, resulting in considerable loss. Despite the damage caused by sprouting wheat and decaying hay, however, an average crop of each was expected.

A fair crop of oats is expected, the service reported. The potato crop benefited most by the weather conditions, the early crop of cobbles, now being removed from the ground, ranging in good sizes.

Lancaster county's tobacco crop was "uncertain." Heavy rains followed by extremely hot sun has baked the ground and in some instances hindered growth of the roots and some fields report the leaf spread irregular and undeveloped.

Except for local hail storms, accompanying severe electrical and rain storms, fruit crops generally were good. Apples promise a clean, large-size crop. Cherries were light and spotty. The grape crop was reported developing rapidly. Moisture has been ample and wood growth is very satisfactory. Bunches are compact and the berries promise to be of good quality.

The buckwheat crop will be delayed this year due to the delay in getting the grain into the ground because of the extensive rains.

Big Peach Crop In Lehigh Valley

Increase Of 61 Per Cent Over Last Year, Farm Report States

(International News Service)

ALLENTOWN, Aug. 14.—Peach growers of the Lehigh Valley region are expecting a crop of 175,000 bushels, an increase of 61 per cent over last year's crop of 108,000 bushels, according to farm reports.

Picking of the new varieties of the bumper crop, attributed to the unusually mild winter, has already begun and will continue into the middle of September for the regular stock.

The consumer, however, probably will not benefit by the increased crop expected here, because it has been reported from New York, center of eastern peach growers market, that climatic conditions in New Jersey have destroyed much of that state's crop.
